Mary Wark, a loyal customer since 1975, has many fond memories of shopping at Garrison’s and gardening with her late husband, Mike. In fact, Mike’s passion for gardening developed after she “transplanted” him from California to Louisiana. Needless to say, Mike “transplanted well,” Mary says, and his curiosity about the foliage here in Louisiana blossomed into a beloved hobby. Currently, Mary visits Garrison’s to maintain his beautiful Country Cottage Garden at their home near Greenwood – although now with a touch of her free-spirited flair.

Vitex, Weigela, Belinda’s Dream Rose and Drift Roses are some of her favorite plants, along with peaches and mayhaw for her homemade jellies. Her red Weigela – an incidental purchase after coming to Garrison’s in search of pink and only finding red –turned out to be the most outstanding plant in her garden last year – a true “showstopper”! Mary also loves plants that reseed, like the California Poppies that line her walkway, Passalong Phlox and Fuschia. Our mulch tops her list of Garrison’s favorites, as well. However, shopping at Garrison’s isn’t all about the blooms or the mulch for her; Mary loves to give to local businesses and praises Garrison’s for its warm, friendly atmosphere. Among her fond memories, along with ours here at Garrison’s, is the hospitality of the late Mr. Garrison. He was always happy to see Mary and Mike when they visited and would give them a complimentary plant. The Wark’s beautiful garden has not gone without praise; it has been featured two times on the Master Gardener tour. It’s safe to say that Mary will continue to be one of our most dedicated customers, and we greatly appreciate her patronage.

Design an Evening Garden

Between busy work schedules and hot, humid days, the evening garden--one that features plants with intoxicating scents and those with light colored flowers and foliage--offers the perfect escape.

When you design your evening garden, whether you start with a blank canvas or refurbish part of your existing garden, here are a few points to consider:

1. Make sure that you have easy access to enjoy your plants.

Don't place it too far from your back door, you're less likely to take advantage of it. Instead, if you walk out the back door to a small patio or terrace, that is at least partially enclosed, it will fast become your favorite escape.

For a fragrant evergreen hedge, Jubilation Gardenia is the perfect choice, or you can create a screen by grouping several large pots of gardenias. Other white flowering shrubs for screening that will glow in the evening light include: White Dove Camellia, and for a low hedge, Emerald Snow Loropetalum.

2. A well-lit walkway that is comfortable to walk on is also key.

Solar lights are an option too.

3. Level paths and even surfaces are best for strolling.

For gardens that are more formal, you may use flagstone wide enough for two people to walk comfortably side-by-side. If your garden is informal, mulch is an option. Whichever type of material you choose, the path should invite you into the garden to discover what lies around the corner.

If you use pea gravel, smaller sizes are typically more comfortable to walk on.

4. Include an area to sit and enjoy your garden.

The type of seating you use should relate to the style of your home, creating a harmonious feel, helping to tie the two together.

5. An outdoor dining area with lighting or an arbor with a ceiling fan, are other options to help you get the most out of your garden.

6. If space is limited, a group of plants, whether in the ground, or in containers, will make more of an impact that a few plants dotted here and there.

7. Adding a water garden with recirculating water, even a small self-contained one in a decorative pot, will add the welcome element of sound and the illusion of cooling, even on the hottest of nights.
